

Tanya Beckett

AgriVision Moderator

Tanya's reporting experience spans more than two decades and covers a breadth of subjects ranging from current affairs to investment banking and politics.

Since joining the BBC in 1998, she has worked on a variety of news programmes for BBC World News, the BBC News Channel, Radio 4 and BBC1 and BBC2 including The Inquiry, Our World, Working Lunch, Today, World Business Report and Newsnight.

Her BBC career includes three years of reporting as a correspondent based in New York. Currently,

Tanya writes and presents current affairs content for the weekly BBC radio documentary The Inquiry as well as news programming for BBC News Channel and World TV. Earlier in her career, she gained print and broadcast media experience at the Financial Times, CNBC, Sky News and CNN. Beyond her role as a journalist and reporter, she worked for five years as an investment banker in Frankfurt and London.

Relating to trade and communication matters, Tanya works with the World Bank, EBRD, EIB, ADB, Chatham House, the Somali Government and the British Foreign. She earned a degree from Oxford University in Metallurgy and Materials Science.